

THE GLEICHEN CALL

VOLUME 39 NO 36

Authorized as second class mail, GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 20, 1946

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

The first issue of a quarterly pamphlet by the government's housing corporation has just come off the press and gives a clear picture of what is needed and what has been accomplished to date in permanent housing for Canadians. It's booklet provides a fund of information on which to base thinking and discussion on this live problem.

Outstanding among factors which brought the housing problem are outlined as: (1) An increase in 59 percent in Canada's population since the end of World War I. (2) A great lowering of death rate. (3) A gradual movement of population from rural to urban areas. (4) The direction of supplies and manpower to war purposes for six years (during which time there were over 500,000 marriages in Canada).

During the inter-war year construction of dwelling units was estimated from 14,400 to approximately 50,000. As military events turned more favorably in 1944, some materials were released and housing construction started again. 47,700 new dwelling units were completed in 1945. The effects of the war on other strikes will have been largely overcome before the end of 1946 and from 50 to 55 thousand units should be completed before the end of this year.

The part played in this by the government of Canada is worth noting. By the end of 1945 Wartime Housing a government corporation under the direction of Hon. Mr. Howe, completed 18,774 dwelling units and had 6,818 under construction. Under the Veterans Land Act 1,499 housing units are completed and 8,215 are under construction, this in addition to expenditures for land and existing buildings. Total loans under the National Housing Act from Feb. 1, 1945 to September 30 financed 18,211 new housing units.

Obviously there is need for more emergency housing. A remarkable job has been done in this by the co-operation of the public and our municipal, provincial and federal governments.

CANADA AND WAR

It is not with any enthusiasm that Canadians discuss military matters and question of war but the things force themselves into many discussions and arguments these days in spite of our hope that we would concentrate on progress to peace and prosperity. One of the incidents provocative of war discussion has been the action of the British government introducing peace time conscription for military service there. One Ontario daily in the discussion of co-ordinated defence measures said that the government make a statement now on all its plans. Two articles on war possibilities as they affect Canada have appeared in one of Ottawa's dailies and stimulated much controversy.

Some interesting statements were made by the writer of the articles on war (a prominent war correspondent) who gave them as the "conclusion" that he crystallized in the minds of qualified observers. Some of them are: (1) Talk about Canada being the "battlefield of world war" is a loose talk. Europe will have the dubious distinction of being the likeliest locale of war. (2) A land invasion over the Arctic is most unlikely. (3) Canada would certainly be attacked by air with the object of terrifying the civilian population and diverting our attention away from the main drive which would be bigger and more valuable targets, perhaps in Europe and the Middle East. (4) That such diversionary attacks would probably be successful because Canadians would insist on 100 percent defence of Canada and thus permit an enemy to win its larger objective.

All these conclusions are debated but the strongest argument against the last "conclusion" is certainly there is no evidence to justify it and Canadians have proved in two wars that they are able to unite and sacrifice for the common good. Of the other conclusions it is difficult to judge at this time but all agree that

Today And Tomorrow

Someone should take the youngsters who are growing up into their first jobs to a quiet corner for a few words on the subject of thrift as related to today's high salaries. There might be dropped a hint, too, that there is just a slight chance these lush days won't last forever.

Young men and women some still in their teens, are walking into well paid jobs that would have made the eyes of job applicants in the 30's pop out of their sockets. Almost every one with a high school education is snarped up with a swiftness that may pull them into false security.

Don't misunderstand us we are all for the youngsters getting jobs with good working conditions and pay. The youngsters coming out of our schools today look fine and most of them deserve the break they're getting.

But we'd like them to understand it is as a break that it won't always be easy to get a job as it is now, that the salaries being paid inexperienced help now are high comparatively.

It follows that there is always a chance the bad old days may come back. Goodness knows nobody wants them, with their soap kitchens, big farms in every city block and men trying to keep their families on a few dollars or suffering the indignity of relief. No one wants them, but they may come back.

The wise youngsters who are starting business life now will save money against the future. They will take a few dollars each week, cement it away in a bank account and forget it. They will, that is, if they can conceive of what existence was like for many of their kind in the 30's the endless walking the countryside and across of towns, villages and cities looking for non-existing work, the days with but a nickel in one's pocket, the utter despair that filled the future. The shows, dresses and sports jackets they give up now will light jetties in a bank book if depression hits again.

The wise youngsters will guard their future, too, by improving their qualifications for their jobs and equip themselves for better ones. If the old days do come back those who have been content to take a job half equipped and that stay that way are going to be the first out. The boy or girl who has shown an intelligent effort to earn today's comparatively fat pay envelopes will stick around longer.

U.G.G. Records Profitable Year

Profits of $200,178.54 for the year were recorded by United Grain Growers Limited after taxes and all charges have been met, inclusive provision of $175,000 for patronage dividends. R. S. Law of Winnipeg, president of the company, stated when he presented his annual report at a conference attended by 300 delegates recently held in Calgary. The delegates attending were elected by the United Grain Growers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia and represent the 33,000 shareholders of the company.

The business sessions of the meeting were occupied mainly with discussions of company business and resolutions submitted both by various shareholders' locals and by the board of directors. These included strongly worded resolution opposing the proposed increase in freight rates for which application has been made by the railways. The company's views in this respect are to be forwarded to the government at Ottawa and to the governments of the four western provinces. Another resolution called for the removal of restrictions which now limit the export of maiting barley to the United States. The company's position in relation to income tax as it affects the payment of patronage dividends was reviewed and a resolution endorsing the attitude and actions of the board of directors during the recent years in this respect was passed unanimously.

Guest speaker of the annual meeting was H. A. Hannan, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Giving an account of the work of that body, Mr. Hannan outlined policies which had been consistently advocated by the Federation with frequent success in representation to the Dominion government. Stressing the need for a satisfactory balance between agriculture and labor in the Canadian economy, Mr. Hannan dealt with the difficulty of adopting or applying any rigid formula with the history of its organization briefly reviewed. The present name United Grain Growers Limited was assumed in 1917 when amalgamation

Plan Reception For Those Who Served During War

A meeting that consisted of representatives of different local organizations of town and district was called by the Board of Trade in the Community Hall last Thursday evening to arrange a welcoming home reception for the boys and girls who served during the war.

The meeting was well attended with Mr. T. H. Beach in the chair. A. F. MacCallum was appointed secretary-treasurer but James Wright acted during the evening in his absence. Committees were formed to make arrangements for the social evening which is to be held in the near future.

These committees will need the whole hearted support of every citizen to make the coming home function a success.

The company's grain elevator system now includes 224 elevators in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The four retiring directors were re-elected by acclamation. These are Messrs. J. J. McCallum, Port Arthur, Alberta, S. S. Sears, Nanton, Alberta, H. W. Allen, Hualien, Alberta and R. S. Shannon, Grandview, Sask.

RETAILERS make constant use of banking services. In some cases these are simple but essential; the bank takes cash receipts on deposit, makes change, operates current accounts, and accepts and records used ration coupons. Other retail accounts involve considerable handling of drafts, and—a very important service—the making of loans to enable retailers to take advantage of trade discounts. All this entails BANKING IN ACTION.

Just An Experiment

Passengers Flown From Washington To London, Facing Backward

Like the mythical bird that didn't care where he was going but wanted to know where he had just been, a plane-load of passengers flew from Washington to California facing backward.

It was an air transport command experiment, applying new safety theories and testing passenger reaction. He had been a strapping 270-pound seaman when he joined the crew of the Nova in Australia. But security maintenance and exposure reduced him to 135 pounds.

After padding his raft from the tale of Pines to New California, he was unconscious on the shore. Taken to hospital he was too weak to talk and the full story had to wait until now.

SMILE AWHILE

"What's your favorite sport, 'Smiling'."

"I mean, apart from business."

The vicar of a little church in Little Vauxton, England, has collected two buttons in the collection. The next week he announced the find as follows:

"The collection for last Sunday amounted to seventeen shillings, three pence and two buttons. The choir will now sing: 'A man of heart, but Not Your garments.'"

"Are you a man or a mouse?"

"A man of course."

"How do you know?"

"My wife's afraid of a mouse."

"What is dignity, Dad?"

"Dignity, my son, is what you talk about when you have nothing to say."

"What's the meaning of this?"

"I don't believe you know the meaning of this word," said the designing young woman.

"Don't!" replied the wary young man. "Courteously means running after a woman till she catches you!"

"Is that hair tone any good?"

"Well, I spilt some of it on my comb last week and now it's a brush."

"I hear your wife is sick, Mike."

"Mike: She is that."

"Pat: Is it dangerous she is?"

"Mike: Devil a bit. She's too sick to be dangerous any more."

Son: "Pa, what is the difference between a cat and a comma?"

Pa: "I don't know; what is it?"

Son: "A cat has claws at the end of its paws and a comma is a pause at the end of a clause."

It was time for the factory worker's son to go to bed.

"Tell me a story, Daddy," said the boy.

"Well, my son," began the factory worker, "once upon a time and a half..."

"Dadling, I implored her, 'will you marry me? If you refuse, I shall die.'"

"She refused."

He died—sixty years later!

HER LUCKY DAY

A young Cardigan housewife noticed a hole in a chair she had bought at a sale. She put her thumb in the hole, felt something that wasn't stuffing, pulled. And out came 64 pairs of pre-war silk stockings, fully fashioned!

GRIM STORY

Norwegian Sailor Tells Of Wreck And Starvation

SYDNEY, Australia.—James Chug, Norwegian sailor, told the grim story of the wreck of the coastal Ketch Nova and the deaths of his three shipmates.

Chug—a gaunt skeleton after 119 days of starvation—struggled ashore on New Caledonia Oct. 7 and now is a United States Army hospital there.

The Nova's skipper, Grant West, 34, and crew members Frank Anderson, 36, and Frank Pulling died during the long battle with thirst and hunger.

The Nova set out last June 10 on a coastal fishing trip. It ran out of gasoline and later, during a storm, its sails and sextant were washed overboard.

With only a day's provisions, West, Anderson, Pulling and Chug had 1,000 miles of drifting. After weeks of horror, the Nova was wrecked on the tale of Pines, 70 miles southeast of Noumea, New Caledonia. Only Pulling and Chug remained alive then and Pulling died shortly afterwards.

When their rations were gone, the four sailors had attempted to keep alive by spearing fish with a fork and using barnacles scraped from the hull of their boat for soup.

But Anderson died of malaria and Pulling two days later he was followed by West.

Pulling was within sight of rescue when he died. When he and Chug had landed from their wrecked boat they saw smoke arising from the French island of New Caledonia.

After Pulling's death, Chug spent two weeks building a makeshift raft. He had been a strapping 270-pound seaman when he joined the crew of the Nova in Australia. But security maintenance and exposure reduced him to 135 pounds.

After padding his raft from the tale of Pines to New California, he was unconscious on the shore. Taken to hospital he was too weak to talk and the full story had to wait until now.

HAVE YOU ANY RUPEES IN YOUR PURSE?

Mrs. Blair has been talking for months about buying a real Indian-sheep. But wouldn't she be surprised if she found it priced in rupees! That it isn't, is due in large measure to the services rendered by your bank.

When you buy imported goods in Canadian stores, you pay in Canadian dollars—but the people who made them were paid in Indian rupees, British pounds, French francs...

It is the same in reverse with exports. You may be one of the three out of every eight Canadians who make their living through goods sold abroad. If so, you receive your wages in dollars, but your products are sold in all sorts of foreign currencies.

Arranging the complicated exchange and transfer of foreign funds in such transactions is but one of your bank's many services enabling Canadians to buy and sell abroad.
